

Where Guinea Worm Is Found

When the Carter Center began to provide technical and financial assistance to national eradication programs in 1986, Guinea worm disease was found in twenty countries in Africa and Asia. Today the disease remains in four countries, all in Africa: Sudan, Ghana, Mali, Ethiopia.

- Endemic Countries in 1986 (20)
- Endemic Countries in 2010 (4)

